3:30 PM – 4:00 PM	Keynote: Leveraging Cloud as an Enabler for Automation, AI and Digital Transformation Enterprises today have set out on aspirational automation journey to improve operational efficiency and transform service delivery. For many high-volume, low-complexity, rules-driven tasks, the opportunity to use RPA is clear. But for the same reason, the limits of RPA are equally clear: “faster and/or cheaper” does not always mean “more effective”. It is on this frontier that cognitive computing becomes an enabler to unprecedented levels of automation, reducing costs dramatically and helping respond aggressively to disruption in the industry. This session will showcase real life examples on how enterprises have fulfilled the promise of automation by complementing RPA with cognitive computing, and by putting together a holistic governance framework. - Arie Fisher, Strategy & Sales, Google
4:00 PM – 4:45 PM	Live In Canada: Intelligent Automation Gets Smart Real life, current examples of cognitive computing driving resilience and value into RPA in Canada. High volume, low complexity, rule-driven tasks can be turned over to RPA. But what happens when the rules change? Or the complexity is higher? Or when applying RPA to those high volume, low complexity tasks just means you're doing the same old inefficient, ineffective thing a little more quickly? We'll showcase examples of RPA complimented by cognitive computing and enabled by -- crucially -- a holistic governance framework. Bots need governance too... Mukund Kalmanker, Vice President, Wipro
